NEW EFFORT TO HALT PROBE

German Aviators May Be Bombers Of British Ships

Startling Theory Is Advanced In Connection With Insurgent Attacks

Britain Looks To Mussolini To Aid In Halting Bombing Of Ships

By KINGSBURY SMITH

(Copyright, 1938)

LONDON, June 28.—The startling theory that German aviators attached to Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces but operating without his foreknowledge have been responsible for recent bombing attacks on British ships in Spanish waters was voiced in diplomatic quarters here today.

Usually well-informed sources expressed opinion the object was to sabotage or at least block as long as possible completion of the Anglo-Italian peace agreement as well as to divert British attention from events in Central Europe.

The belief was predicated on the theory that foreign "volunteers" serving with the Franco side in Spain are able to act more or less autonomously, or in any case to be more responsible to their home governments than to Franco himself.

In support of the theory, the informants cited presumably accurate testimony to the effect Franco knew nothing of yesterday's attacks upon the British merchantment Arlon and Farnham at Alicante and Valencia yesterday until after they had occurred.

Looks To Mussolini

London, June 28.—Prime minister Neville Chamberlain of Britain looked to Premier Mussolini for aid today to halt insurgent bombings of British ships in Spanish waters.

Council Moves To Buy Meters

Measures To Provide For Ratifying Contract For Parking Meters Approved

FINAL VOTE LIKELY DURING NEXT WEEK

Council met in the city building Monday afternoon and reported favorably from committee bills, which, if adopted, will ratify the contract between the Municipal Equipment company and the city for the purchase of parking meters. Under the provisions of one of the measures the city will buy 437, not 500 meters.

Councilman J. D. Alexander at first opposed reporting the measures favorably. He said he believed that, as the meters were installed on a trial period it would be necessary for the city to re-advertise for meters. He said he did not believe the city could expend more than $500, without asking for new bids.

City Solicitor William Cobau said that, legally he believed the city could now ratify the present agreements whereupon Councilman J. M. Rice stated that inasmuch as the city's equity in each meter now amounts to about $40.00, he could not see why new bids should be asked, inasmuch as the Municipal Equipment company might not offer bids again and the city would lose their equity and meters. The meters cost $58.00 each.

Report Favorable

Councilman J. M. Fink took the same attitude and Mayor Charles E. McGrath said that it was his impression that when the contract with the company was written and signed by both parties that it was legal. Councilman W. H. Dunlap said that for his part he believed the company was entitled to its share of deposits for the time the meters were in trial service.

At one time, Councilman Alexander made a recommendation that the contract be terminated and the company be ordered to remove the meters. No second to his motion was made. Finally, he withdrew the motion after which Councilman

Gettysburg Is Ready To Greet Visiting Hosts

First Of Blue And Gray Veterans Arriving At Famous Battleground

TENTED CITY HAS MADE APPEARANCE

Seventy-Fifth Anniversary Of Decisive Civil War Battle To Be Observed

(International News Service)

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 28.—This quiet county seat, 75 years ago the hub of a holocaust, held out its welcome today to the fading ranks of the Blue and the Gray.

Into Gettysburg poured the vanguard of some 3,500 Union and Confederate veterans of the Civil War, each accompanied by an attendant assigned by the federal government for the duration of the eight-day 75th anniversary celebration of the battle that "turned the tide of the Confederacy."

Today's arrivals for the celebration, which formally opens tomorrow, were by automobile. Wednesday the first trains bringing aged veterans, including 115 from Pennsylvania, to occupy the city of tents just completed were scheduled to arrive.

Drifting into the city, too, were the first of the expected 50,000 visitors between now and July 4—when the ceremonies end.

Confederate Veteran Arrives

Meanwhile the first Confederate veteran to arrive was welcomed by his one-time foe.

"We are all Americans," Dr. Overton H. Mennett, Los Angeles, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, said in greeting 105-year-old James Robert Paul, Charlotte, N. C., first Confederate to arrive on the scene of the crucial battle of '62.

"There is no north, no south, anymore," he smiled as he clasped the hand of Paul, only surviving member of General Stonewall Jackson's 42nd Infantry, Company K. "We are all brothers now." Together they toured the battlefield.

City Of Tents

Just beyond the northern borders of Gettysburg lay the finished city of tents erected for the veterans, state motor police, National Guardsmen and others assigned to the celebration. South of the town another camp housed U. S. Army regulars. Several thousand men from all branches of the service already were on hand.

The town, striving to outdo itself in comfortably providing for veterans and visitors alike, took on a distinct carnival atmosphere as the time for beginning of the celebration drew nearer. Soft drink and souvenir stands set up on the side-

Chinese Forces Wedge Way Into Vicinity Of Former Capital, Taken By Japs

(International News Service)

SHANGHAI, June 28—Chinese forces harried Japanese communication lines between Nanking and Shanghai today as warfare once more was brought into the "Japanese-controlled" area of the Yangtze river valley.

Reports received here said the Chinese force, based at Kwangteh, claimed to have reached the outskirts of Nanking former Chinese capital which was captured by the Japanese several months ago in one of the bloodiest military engagements since the World War.

Threaten Chingkiang

Another detachment was reported threatening Chingkiang, the capital of Kiangsu province. Japanese authorities, meanwhile said their troops had resumed their offensive toward Hankow along the Lunghai railway corridor following the recent interruption caused by the disastrous Yellow river floods.

A new step toward the long-feared invasion of South China was reported with the landing of 2,000 Japanese marines on the Northeastern coast of Kwangtung Province.

Honk Kong dispatches said the blue jackets were landed from 12 Nipponese warships at several shore points opposite Namao Island. The landing ocurred at about the time Britain revealed it had joined French in warning Japan against any attempt to occupy Hainan Island off the South China coast near French Indo-China.

Hear Testimony In Petition For School District

Residents Of Mahoning Township, North Of River Seek Independent District

Testimony was started this morning before Judge W. Walter Braham in the petition of residents of Mahoning township to establish an independent school district north of the Mahoning river.

The petition sets out that the people north of the river are oppressed by an unfair division of the burden and benefit of taxation as a result of which a large porportion of the school district tax they pay is used not to educate their children, but for the benefit of the residents of the district south of the Mahoning river.

Officers of the school board and township officers were called to testify as to the tax levy and distribution. It is understood that there is a possibility of hauling all the school children attending the seven schools north of the river to the Hillsville school. This the residents north of the river do not want, it is said, and they want their own independent district. The hearing will last all day.

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, June 28.—Count Kurt Von Haugwitz-Reventlow, estranged husband of the former Barbara Hutton, today decided to surrender himself at Bow Street court to answer charges contained in a warrant sworn out against him.

The Count, who is now in Paris, will turn himself over to the authorities "at the earliest possible moment," it was learned.

The warrant was obtained by the Countess, presumably to prevent her husband from obtaining custody over their two-year old son, Lance, central figure in the growing dispute between them which seems destined for the divorce court. Its exact charges have never been made public.

Supreme Court Asked To Rule On Decision Upholding Shelley

HIGH COURT WILL MEET WEDNESDAY

Judge Schaeffer To Study Evidence And Rule On Probe Necessity

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 28.—Attorney General Guy K. Bard has asked Gov. George H. Earle not to appeal to the supreme court for removal of District Attorney Carl B. Shelley from the proposed local grand jury investigation, it was learned today.

No direct explanation was given for the action. Bard declined to comment.

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, June 28. The grand jury investigation into the Earle administration apparently was headed again today for the state supreme court, entangled once more in a legal maze.

In the wake of a decision by Judge Paul N. Schaeffer refusing to unseat Republican District Attorney Carl B. Shelley in his conduct of the proposed probe, Gov. George H. Earle ordered Attorney General Guy K. Bard to appeal to the supreme court. The high court meets tomorrow in Philadelphia in its last session preparatory to adjoining until fall.

Study Evidence

At the same time Judge Schaeffer prepared to study the evidence in Shelley's possession to see if it was sufficiently "credible" to warrant the calling of a grand jury. He ordered Shelley to turn it over to him for his inspection.

The Berks county jurist's refusal to uphold Bard in his attempt to supersede Shelley, seemingly left the proposed investigation, should it go through, with two prosecutors. Judge Schaeffer said there was nothing to prevent Bard, as attorney general, from participating in the investigation along with Shelley.

Apparently realizing, however, that Bard and Shelley were so diametrically opposed in their viewpoints on the proposed investigation as to make it exceedingly difficult, if not altogether impossible, for them

Snell To Retire To Private Life

Several Mentioned As Likely Successor As Minority Leader

SNELL ENDING 24 YEARS IN HOUSE

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 28.—An announcement by Rep. Snell (R) of New York, that he will retire to private life, today put the names of Reps. Martin (R) of Massachusetts, and Wadsworth (R) of New York, in the foreground for the post of house minority leader which Snell will vacate.

Martin, already holding the unofficial title of "assistant minority leader," is expected to be candidate and Snell's probable successor. Although Wadsworth was among the first to be mentioned, friends said they doubted he would actively seek the post.

Others mentioned included Reps. Ditter of Pennsylvania, Jenkins of Ohio, Mapes of Michigan, and Fish of New York. Fish, leader of the insurgent wing of house Republicans, has repeatedly denounced the party leadership, both in congress and the national organization.

Snell, in announcing his decision to end 24 years of service in the house, gave as his reason a desire to devote his attention to his personal affairs. Associates said recurring ill-health also contributed to his plan to retire.

Considers Action On Hundred Bills Passed By Last Congress

MOST OF WEEK TO BE SPENT QUIETLY

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 28.—President Roosevelt reviewed the merits of more than a hundred bills today as he started a week's stay at the Hudson river family estate which has become the summer White House since congress adjourned.

The executive retired to Hyde Park after a dreary twenty-four hours at Wilmington, Del., where Prince Bertil, 26-year-old son of Sweden's ailing Crown Prince, stood in the rain and presented the United States with a monument commemorating the first landing of the Swedes in 1638. Bertil's father, Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, is suffering from an acute kidney ailment.

Hundred Bills Await Action

There were approximately one hundred bills still hanging fire for presidential action. All of the important pieces of last-minute legislation had been acted upon.

Presidential Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre said there were no engagements at the Roosevelt home today. McIntyre said that Mr. Roosevelt intended to devote himself to a disposal of the official business that the dying congress left with him.

For the most part, Mr. Roosevelt was back at his family home to enjoy a week's reunion with his family. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and his wife Ethel DuPont Roosevelt, welcomed the president. So too, did Mrs. Roosevelt and John and Anna Boettiger, son-in-law and daughter. Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, 83-year-old mother of the president, beamed proudly as her son returned.

imo Francisco Franco unless a "satisfactory explanation" of the latest air attacks on British ships is received by tonight.

The London Daily Mail reported that Chamberlain sent a direct telegraphic appeal to Il Duce urging the expediency of persuading Franco to restrict insurgent bombings in Spain to military objectives.

Chamberlain's message, according to a Rome dispatch, emphasized possible dangerous complications which might result from incidents involving British ships and British lives.

Mussolini was reported to have replied, assuring Chamberlain that he would use his influence with Franco to end the aerial attacks on British vessels.

Sees Vigorous Action

The British government decided upon vigorous action as anger rose over the bombings yesterday of two more British ships, with a reported loss of four lives, and a new air raid on the British-operated port of Gandia while the British cruiser Arethusa lay off that city.

Chamberlain ordered Sir William Hodgson, British agent at Burgos, to return to London without delay if Franco fails to give an adequate explanation of the newest air attacks, in which the British freighters Arlon and Farnham were reported attacked. Both ships were reported sinking.

Diplomatic circles said Sir William was ordered to London to consult the government on the air attacks and the general Spanish situation. But the view was widely held that a serious rupture between Britain and the Burgos regime may occur unless the attacks cease immediately.

The Duke of Alba, Franco's representative here, informed the government that the insurgent leader is anxious to tighten his control over the airmen operating from Majorca Island, Italian-supervised insurgent air base.

Despite efforts to convince Chamberlain that many raids on British ships were not sanctioned by Franco, the British government, spurred by new outbursts in the house of commons, decided to hold the insurgents responsible for further assaults against British ships.

So far, however, Chamberlain has refused to abandon his policy of using non-forcible methods in order not to plunge all Europe into war. In the house of commons, he vetoed a suggestion that Britain mount anti-aircraft guns on British merchantmen in the Spanish trade.

To date in the most recent series of attacks 15 British merchant vessels have been sunk or damaged by insurgent air bombs.

Controversy Over Expenditures Of Recent Congress

Democrats Say Appropriations Were $9,563,162,309.68, Republicans Say $13,-371,001,048.88

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON June 28—The Republican-Democratic dispute over just how expensive the most expensive congress in peacetime history actually was, assumed new proportions today when Rep. Cannon (D) of Missouri, charged the G. O. P. with seeking to "befuddle public understanding" to the extent of $4,-000,000,000.

As the ranking Democratic member of the house appropriations committee, Cannon placed appropriations of the congress just adjourned at $9,563,162,309.68.

As the ranking Republican member on the house appropriations committee, Rep. Taber of New York, previously had placed the figure at $13,371,001,048.88.

Counts Everything

Taber frankly belongs to the "count everything" school. Cannon, in his tabulations prepared for the congressional record declared he was only interested in what could actually be charged up to the 75th congress.

Taber reached his 13 billion figure by "stretching, pyramiding, duplication and projection," according to Cannon. He said that if the G. O. P. estimate should be "widely believed, recovery would be blighted before it could get started."

Chief difference between the two members appeared to be over the question of counting re-appropriations from unexpended balances of previous years, and permanent appropriations (those directed to be made by previous sessions). Taber adds them all up, and, according to Cannon, throws in a few hundred million extra for good measure.

Cannon doesn't count either permanent or re-appropriations. Best guess what the official figures will show when they are eventually compiled is $11,361,000,000, which is approximately half way between the disputed estimates of the two contests and which official figures incidentally always include permanent appropriations, but not re-appropriations.

COUNCIL MOVES TO BUY METERS

Rice offered a motion reporting favorably the legislation approving the contract and purchasing 437 meters. It passed unanimously.

Under provisions of the legislation the company will receive 85 percent and the city 15 percent of the deposits of motorists until the meters are paid for. The company will pay the entire cost of installation out of their 85 percent and stop any claims they may have against the city for repairs or damages to the meters.

As soon as the measures are printed they will be called up for third and final vote in council, which possibly will be next week. The measures will become effective immediately upon passage.

Youth Kills Self; Girl Spurns Death

High School Graduate Of 19 Ends Life In St. Louis Park

ST. LOUIS, June 28.—Salvator Cina, Jr., 19, a high school graduate, shot and fatally wounded himself Monday, police said, after an unsuccessful attempt to force 17-year-old Bernice Bohnert at gunpoint to accompany him into a park and "end it all."

The youth was found lying on a park bench, a bullet wound in his right temple, a few hours later. Near him was a discharged revolver. He died in a hospital.

Miss Bohnert told police she had accompanied Cina to an ice cream store. On the way home, she said, he asked her to go to Fairgrounds Park with him, so they might kill themselves. He drew a gun and forced her to walk to the entrance of the park, she said, but she refused to enter.

He went in alone and a few minutes later, Miss Bohnert said, she heard a shot.

In Cina's wallet was found a note with the words, "I love Bernice," scratched on a piece of paper in blood.

President Keeps Promise To Navy

Approves Of $100,000 Project To Restore Admiral Farraguts Civil War Flagship

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The seafaring man in the White House today kept a promise he made to his navy department by approving a public works grant of $100,000 for restoration of Admiral David G. Farragut's civil war flagship, the U. S. S. Hartford.

President Roosevelt, embarking from Charleston navy yard for Philadelphia recently, noticed the Hartford tied up at a dock and apparently in a dilapidated condition. Advised of the ship's historical significance, he promised sufficient funds to restore it to the glory of its Civil War days.

It was from the Hartford's quarterdeck that Farragut made his famous comment of "damn the torpedoes, go ahead," when, during the battle of Mobile Bay, one of his scout ships was sunk by a confederate mine as the Union fleet moved into combat.

If his condition becomes more painful, he will be taken to New York today by automobile.

Under present plans, Crown Princess Louise will remain in Philadelphia throughout today's celebration and then go to New York to rejoin her husband, leaving Prince Bertil behind to "carry on" through Wednesday's program.

walks began a flourishing business while battlefield guards were jammed with parties desiring to visit the battlefield. Primarily a country town of approximately 6,000 people, not generally disturbed by such gigantic demonstrations such as this one promises to be, Gettysburg was basking in a new glory.

Friday, July 1, was scheduled as "Reunion Day," with Gov. George H. Earle, Secretary of War Woodring, and the commanders of the G. A. R. and U. C. V. delivering addresses. Saturday was listed as 'Veterans' and Governors' Day," with Sunday sending the program to new heights with the appearance of President Roosevelt. Highlight of the celebration will be the president's dedicatory address for the new "Eternal Peace" Memorial, latest addition to the thousands of battlefield monuments.

A modern version of war tactics—demonstrated by the United States Army—was to windup the celebration July 4.

Sailors once were called "tarpaulins." The word has been shortened to "tar."

Seabiscuit And War Admiral In Race Wednesday

At Last Horses Enter Same Race At Suffolk Downs In Massachusetts

(International News Service)

BOSTON, June 28.—The long-awaited race between War Admiral and Seabiscuit is definitely on.

Despite reports that the continued rain since Sunday might cause withdrawal of the C. S. Howard entry, Trainer Tom Smith walked into the entry booth at Suffolk Downs ten minutes before closing and entered Seabiscuit in the $50,000 added Massachusetts handicap tomorrow. Half an hour earlier, Trainer George Conway had entered War Admiral.

Both will carry top impost of 130 pounds. War Admiral get the outside post position, Seabiscuit No. 8.

Also entered were Menow, Flying Scot, War Minstrel and Finance, the latter two owned by Mrs. E. Denemark, and four other horses.

The administration building at Suffolk Downs was crowded by persons eager to see whether or not both War Admiral and Seabiscuit would be entered.

The heavy rain ceased this afternoon and turned into a light drizzle. Suffolk Downs officials anticipated a crowd of 50,000 tomorrow afternoon. Pari-mutual windows for the Massachusetts handicap will open at 11 a. m., tomorrow.

School Plea Is Lost By Amish

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—The United States circuit court of appeals ruled that the federal courts have no jurisdiction to interfere with the action of the East Lampeter township school board which replaced little one-room school houses in Lancaster county with a consolidated building.

The decision, written by Judge Joseph Buffington, overruled an opinion by Federal Judge George A. Welsh that the consolidated building, at Smoketown, "violated" the "religious and moral precepts" of Amish and Mennonite residents who said they preferred the one-room schools.

One group of Amish said that they did not want their children to come in contact with city children. They said such contacts taught worldly things and induced the children to leave farms.

GOVERNOR EARLE IN NEW APPEAL AGAINST PROBE

to act together. Judge Schaeffer informally suggested both of them step out of the case, each appointing one or more disinterested substitutes in his place.

To Make Test

Although Bard had stated he had no intention of personally conducting the investigation in the event he was permitted to supersede Shelley, his action in preparing his appeal to the supreme court showed he was prepared to test to the utmost the power of the attorney general to supersede a district attorney.

Judge Schaeffer in his opinion held that the attorney general's power to supersede a district attorney, while recognized by the supreme court, was "not absolute and unqualified."

"That right is qualified by his own adverse interest," ruled Judge Schaeffer, "and we think it must be qualified further in a case such as this where his superior, the officer who created him attorney general and who under the constitution may dismiss him at his own pleasure, is charged with unlawful conduct."

Judge Schaeffer was referring here to Governor Earle, one of the 14 high Democratic state officials and leaders charged with graft and corruption as an outgrowth of charges made during the recent Democratic primary campaign.

See New Battle

Possibility of another fight between Bard and Shelley arose when the attorney general indicated the administration would want to have a representative present when Shelley presented his evidence to Judge Schaeffer for his consideration. This was almost certain to draw the vigorous opposition of the district attorney.

Although no definite date was set it was believed Shelley would present the evidence to Judge Schaeffer today. The Berks county jurist set no definite date, however, for reconvening court and handing down his decision on the need for a grand jury investigation.

Previous to that Judge Schaeffer had indicated that it was his impression the Dauphin county court had decided upon a grand jury investigation, that that ruling still stood, and that "the only thing remaining was to fix the time."

Thomas R. Wickersham, appearing as Governor Earle's personal attorney, contended in court, however, that when the Supreme Court, in its decision refusing to bar the investigation, used the words "de novo," or from the beginning, it meant for Judge Schaeffer to make the final decision.

Judge Schaeffer evidently agreed with him, for he agreed later to scrutinize Shelley's evidence before deciding on whether to order a grand jury probe.

PACURAR-SEMLER WEDDING TODAY

One of the prettiest weddings of the season, took place this morning in St. Joseph's church, when Miss Virginia Pacurar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Pacurar of 210 West Sheridan avenue, became the bride of Clement William Semler, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Semler of 802 Highland avenue, in the presence of a large assemblage of friends and relatives.

The church was beautifully decorated in an array of choice calla lilies, roses, gladioli, in perfect arrangement against a background of ferns and palms, which outlined the chancel. Lighted Cathedral candles in branching candelabrum, shedding a soft glow of light, completed the beautiful setting. The Rev. Fr. Joseph Doerr, officiated.

The chanting of appropriate songs, and organ music contributed by Miss Claire Duff at intervals throughout the ceremony, added further to the impressiveness of the occasion.

Attired in a white net gown, made toe length with short train, and trimmed in lace, the bride presented a lovely picture. Her finger-tip veil was caught with a halo of orange blossoms, and she wore as her only ornament, a pearl necklace of the groom's mother. She carried a white leather bound prayer book, with streamers of gardenias attached.

Miss Bernadette Semler, sister of the groom, as maid of honor and only attendant, wore a gown of pink net made identical to that of the bride's, toe length, and adorning her head, was a net hat in sky blue. Her arm bouquet was of Johanna Hill roses and blue delphiniums, caught with pink streamers.

James Kearns of this city, served as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Pacurar wore a dusky pink lace creation, with accessories in roseberry, and a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. Semler, chose a poudre blue lace gown, with Navy accompaniments. Her shoulder bouquet was of tea roses and blue delphiniums.

Following a congratulatory period, the bridal party and members of their families, motored to the Elk's club where a wedding breakfast was served to guests numbering fifty. The nuptial motif was most evident in all appointments, and the traditional tiered cake with miniature figures was prominently placed.

A reception followed at the home of the bride, and late this afternoon, the young couple left on a ten day motor trip to Atlantic City, New York and the New England States. For traveling, Mrs. Semler selected a tailored pin stripe gabardine suit, with harmonizing accompaniments.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Semler will be at home to friends in their newly furnished apartment at 308 Berger Place, this city.

BALDWIN CLASS HAS ANNUAL PICNIC EVENT

In spite of the fact that inclement weather necessitated a last minute change in plans, the annual picnic for members of the Baldwin Bible class of the Highland United Presbyterian church and their families proved most successful, Monday evening.

Promptly at the appointed hour, the guests were served a delicious tureen dinner, but instead of the grove at Cascade Park, the dining-room of the church was the setting. A festive note was carried out, however, in the bowls of colorful summer flowers which centered each table, and decorated the rest of the room.

Following the dinner Dr. D. L. Ferguson, pastor of the church, with Mrs. Dorothy Gormley Smith as accompanist, led the group in a rollicking round of group singing. Later the time was spent informally, with the horse-shoe pits of the church forming a center of activity.

Much credit for the success of this event is due to Mrs. R. L. Wallace and her committee, Mrs. W. I. Clark, Mrs. H. A. Wilkison, Mrs. W. J. Offutt, Mrs. John Offutt, and Mrs. Carl Paisley.

MILITARISM MEANS ECONOMIC SUICIDE

IF THERE were any doubt that militarism is as economically disastrous as it is brutally oppressive to all concerned, the present developments in Germany and in Japan ought to banish it once and for all.

Germany's new decree conscripting for labor service every man and woman in the country, regardless of age and occupation, is a step in the enslavement of a nation that rivals even Soviet Russia's shackling of individual liberty.

Japan's Nazi-style "materials mobilization" program calls for increasing sacrifices by the Japanese people in the use of commodities and in surrendering to the war lords full control over their lives—all for the sake of an "incident" in China which daily seems less likely to provide the ruthlessly sought victory.

General Goering has made plain that the German labor conscription plan will apply primarily to Hitler's vast building program, there being a shortage of workers. Why does this shortage exist? Because Germany's army and stupendous rearming drive are utilizing all the man-power that otherwise might be available for a national building campaign.

It is grimly enlightening that the two nations which have now adopted drastic new measures to bolster their sagging economies are the same two nations which have done most in the last few months to spread terror on earth. In every European capital Hitler's sword-rattling aggression has raised questions of national safety and has spurred the most costly arms race in the world's history.

In Asia, Japan has carried on a campaign of frightfulness that has no modern parallel. Its scourge of civilian populations has stirred world-wide protests. Yet the conquest of China, in the eyes of skilled and experienced observers, is as far off, in a practical sense, as it was when Japan last year began its renewed drive. In fact, there are indications that instead of dismembering China and speeding its complete capitulation the Japanese invasion actually is helping to create a united China, united in defense.

The conditions faced by Germany and her ally Japan appear to prove beyond the slightest question that militarism, directed toward aggression and imperialism, means economic suicide for the nation that adopts it as a deliberate course of procedure.

What is happening in the case of Germany and Japan should be a solemn warning to all governments. Defensive wars inflict untold hardships on nations upon which they are forced. But aggressive warfare is the ultimate destroyer of all civilization. Nations which ignore treaty pledges to wage imperialistic war, whatever the plausible exigency, are taking a short-cut to disaster.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

GREATNESS IN THE RANKS

Because all men seem to be born with some mechanism which periodically produces an impulse to guide others, words directed to "followers" rarely find any listeners. The followers are always the other people.

Consequently the chances are that recent remarks of the president of an eastern college died in his listeners' minds before the echoes died in the air. He simply observed that "equal to the call of leadership is the call to the company of those who follow."

Obviously, there are no leaders without followers. The leader is powerless without allegiance, and he is at every follower's mercy. He is made by his following, and he is broken by it.

There is little individual glory for the follower, and this is a pity in these times of spectacular leaders. Man thrives on dreams of glory, and if every man could be made to recognize the power that is his simply as a follower, and every leader's and follower's dependence upon him, more great leaders would arise and there would be more following done in the right direction.

"To have great poets," Walt Whitman reminded, "we must have great audiences, too."

FOR TEACHERS OF SAFETY

Educators throughout the country hail the inauguration at New York university of a national center for safety education, the first of its kind in the United States. Its principal object is to teach teachers how to teach safety, but its facilities will be open to all who have a practical concern in its interests.

The legislature or the departments of education in nearly every state now require some form of safety instruction for grade school children. The results are vividly shown in a phenomenal saving of child lives. The accident fatality rate in the age group of five to fourteen years since 1922 has decreased 15 per cent. Meanwhile, the rate for all ages combined has increased 24 per cent.

With the inauguration of New York university's center for safety education, a new phase in the safety education movement begins. For some time the need has not been to convince educators of the importance of safety instruction, but rather to aid them in making their courses more effective through the development of sound teaching practices and materials. This job New York university has now undertaken. The experiment will be watched with interest by a public which is seeking desperately for means with which to reduce America's toll of accidental deaths and injuries.

All in all, the best a teacher of modern history can hope for is to keep an hour ahead of the class.

It may be heresy, but our observation is that big wicked monopolists aren't the only ones who soak the customer.

Radio announcers must be great lovers. If they can plead so tenderly to sell a pill, think how they could speak for themselves.

What a life! At twelve months, people tree you to say silly words, at 20 to 60 years, somebody urges you to say something into a microphone.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY?

Hardly a day goes by that one may not read in the newspaper one or several accounts of crime committed by one or several boys under 20, often in their early teens. Frequently the crime reported is of the most horrible sort. Not only is crime definitely on the increase, but the average age of criminals is decreasing year by year. Slowly crime is creeping toward the crib.

There is, of course, no single cause of crime, and those causes which have been given most emphasis may be among the least.

Economic: If a cure for poverty and unemployment were effected, there surely would be far less crime, for a while at least. We know there are "crime areas" in large cities, in those sections which afford poorest housing, and poorest opportunities for wholesome play, recreation and character building. Yet in the very depths of the depression the juvenile courts of large cities reported a decrease of juvenile delinquency, especially of crimes against property, as theft and robbery.

Neighborhood druggists and school principals in suburban and other higher economic areas, hundreds of whom I have interviewed throughout the United States, say that petty thieving is woefully on the increase by boyss from eight to 14, whose parents have comfortable incomes and are themselves considered good citizens, sometimes civic leaders. The number of serious crimes by 'teen-age boys from so-called better homes appears to be increasing by leaps and bounds. Destruction of property by children in well-to-do neighborhoods is appalling.

Foreign Born Not Criminals

Foreign born: Books are filled with statements about the foreign born and their children as contributors to crime. Yet the Wickersham committee, appointed by former President Hoover, reported that, in proportion to population, there are no more criminals among the foreign born than among our native whites; that even there is no conclusive proof that the children of foreign born, in proportion to population distribution, produce more criminals than children of native born white parents.

Instead, a more recent study reveals that the reformatories in the United States have no larger proportion of boys with one or both parents foreign born, than of native born parentage. This in spite of the cultural conflicts, and lesser opportunities of the children of the foreign born, as compared with children of native born parents. With the same opportunity as native born families, the foreign born in our midst would probably show a citizenship far superior to that of our "100 per cent Americans".

What about the problem of the feeble-minded? It, too, has been greatly exaggerated, as I shall show tomorrow.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A LITTLE AMERICA.

Billions of dollars, millions of people, thousands of cities, and tens upon tens of taxes! This America of ours, huge, rambling, complex—do you find it hard to understand, hard to catch in the focus of a single pair of eyes? But there has been one way to bring America down to size.

Suppose we divide all the facts and figures by a million. Then we can look at a miniature America, exactly like the real thing, but just one-millionth of it in size.

What is it like, this one-millionth America?

It's a country three miles square, a country well-stocked with oil, coal, iron, rich land and all the bounties of nature. It has a population of one hundred thirty people. In normal times forty-two of them live on farms and forty-eight work in factories and offices. Right now, however, twelve are without employment.

With a total income of $60,000, the Federal government owns $40,000, with another $17,500 owed by the States and cities.

Most of the citizens complain about taxes, but only five are required to pay an income tax, and only one has an income of more than $5000.

What do the inhabitants think of their country? Well, some of them complain and seek to change the form of government. But most of them find miniature America, like its real counterpart, a mighty attractive place in which to live.

Bible Thought For Today

Now I beseech you, brethern, mark them which cause divisions and offences contrary to the doctrine which ye have learned; and avoid them.—Romans 16:17.

BIBLE THOUGHT

For what is a man advantaged, if he gain the whole world and lose himself, or be cast away. St. Luke 9:25.

Are we fit to govern ourselves? Well, we are killing our railroads and delivering our highways to trucks, and nobody knows what to do about it.

HINTS and DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:33. Sun rises tomorrow 4:34.

Family reunions are now in order. Relations meet and some are glad to see each other and sometimes there are some in the crowd who feel like strangers among their own people. It's a great world!

The government that talks today of a billion dollars is set down as a piker.

A California jury ordered ten years in prison for a stranded tourist who tried to obtain money by singing in the streets. The jury discovered the tourist was a native of Florida who knew the words of only one song—"Moon Over Miami."

There are lots of people who just love to visit on the farms—for a picnic.

REVENGE

Cassius left the house after two or three years of stormy married life, and in about a week returned by the back way, pried open a window and crawled in.

Mrs. Jackson next door, saw him coming out, bent under the weight of a wash tub, wash board and wringer. "Cassius, whar you takin' dat paraphernalia?" she demanded.

"To pawn 'em," Cash answered. "Dat girl ain't gwine vamp nobody wiv mah weddin' presents."

One way you can tell when prosperity returns is that you will find the callouses will be on the hands instead of the feet.

The attorney general of California ruled that every baby in California is entitled to a bib. Yeah! Also some other things.

A man doesn't get half the scare from denatured alcohol that a woman does from soup with thickening in it.

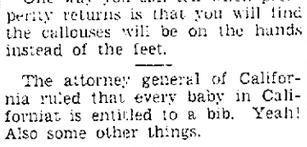

TODAY'S STORYETTE

They had taken the scene in the movie a dozen times, until the director was exasperated beyond endurance.

"Rotten!" he shrieked to the leading lady. "Your acting is terrible in this scene. This man is proposing marriage to you—understand! proposing marriage, and you must learn to refuse him nicely. You must have had a dozen proposals in your lifetime."

"Sure I have," came the reply, "but I never refused any of them".

The old home of Jesse James at St. Joseph, Mo., in which he was killed, is going to be turned into a museum and a monument to his memory is also to be erected in another place where he once lived. He was a pretty decent bandit compared to some we have now.

Free country: one where people are permitted to grumble while obeying orders.

UTTER STRANGERS

Doughboy (over in France): My wife writes me if I don't come home toot sweet she's going to divorce me. I want to resign from the Army.

Captain: Impossible, soldier! I guess you don't know the Army!

Doughboy (bitterly): Mebbe not, Captain, but the Army don't know my wife!

When the boys down in Washington run out of places to get money they will no doubt ask the banks to come across for their lending and spending gallop. They know where the money comes from but they don't know where it goes.

It is said that there are people working on government alphabetical jobs who are getting more money for their work than they ever did when they worked on private enterprises. No doubt feels good.

Often when some people die it surprises people the amount of money they leave. This is especially true when it comes to relatives.

WELL, WELL, WELL

Mistress: "This food tastes terrible. Did you salt it?"

New Cook: "Yes'm, but I never used that brand before. It was called Epsom Salts."

When the judge climbed into the dentist's chair, and was just going under the influence of gas, what he said was: "Do you swear you will pull the tooth, the whole tooth and nothing but the tooth?"

WORSE THAN EVER

Smith turned up at the club a short time after his marriage. He had such a desperate look that his friends asked what was the matter.

"I'm blue," he answered. "I'm just blue. I got married last month and I've discovered that my wife can't sing."

"But," they laughed, "you shouldn't let that trouble you. Why, you are to be congratulated."

"No, I'm not, either," said Smith bitterly. "You see, she thinks she can."

We know a bird who said when his wife starts to talk he just lets her talk herself out when she starts on him. He must be a tough guy to stand it as long as it usually takes to talk out.

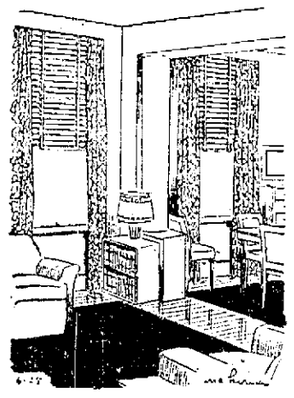

MESS LINE REPARTEE

Suspicious Soldier (to Mess Sergeant): Are these eggs fresh?

Sgt. Sourpuss: The farmer said these eggs are so fresh they were asking the chickens for dates!

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

By Francine Markel

WHEN two rooms are in close proximity, especially when they open into each other, as do most living and dining rooms, their color schemes should harmonize. They need not be identical as to walls or floor covering and window draperies but they should in no way clash. The same kind of wood in the furniture of both rooms is a good choice. For instance, mahogany in both rooms will be decidedly more attractive than mahogany in one and maple in the other.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Market:—My daughter, who lives in a distant city, is to marry soon. She will be married in the city where she now lives and I shall be unable to attend the wedding. Should the invitations be issued in her name or in mine?

Tomorrow—A Great Display of Rudeness

A word to the wise falls upon empty ears.

The trouble with most of us is that when we have reached a ripe old age we find we've gone stale.

MORE TRUE THAN FUNNY

An old negro not long ago applied for membership in an extremely exclusive church in an Eastern city. But the bishop of this refined congregation told the old man that his spiritual condition was not satisfactory and sent him home to pray.

After a few days the petitioner again sought the minister and again the bishop said that he was unsatisfied and recommended the darky to prayer. But the next day back came the old man, his face shining.

"Well," said the bishop, "How is it with you, Sambo?"

"It's all right, suh," answered the darky. "I prayed to de Lord, and de Lord said, 'Go ahead, Sambo, and good luck to you. Ise been trying to git into that church for twenty years myself.'"

The farmer who advertised for a mule and added: "It must be reasonable," probably never got one, for they do not grow that kind.

INVENTORY OF A HANDBAG

The contents of a woman's handbag were accidentally dumped on the floor of an automobile in which I was riding. With the owner's permission I made an inventory which is herewith presented:

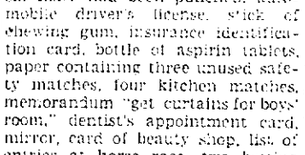

Six hairpins, half-filled package of cigarettes, powder box, door key, nail file, massage ticket in which six holes had been punched, automobile driver's license, stick of chewing gum, insurance identification card, bottle of aspirin tablets, paper containing three unused safety matches, four kitchen matches, memorandum "get curtains for boys' room," dentist's appointment card, mirror, card of beauty shop, list of entries at horse race, two betting slips, memorandum of mysterious telephone number, card of a department store salesman, theatre ticket stub, one gray glove, box of rouge, lipstick, 2-inch comb, card of radio store, four copper cents, one small pearl, one parking lot check, three sales tax stamps, one safety pin, one automobile key, one handkerchief, purse containing $1.25 in change.

Anyway there was no revolver or stiletto present.

The families working on a budget system invariably find that by the time they have balanced up in the evening, it is too late to go anywhere.

The boy who has been fighting and appears to have lost his two front teeth may only have them in his pocket.

When a girl doesn't worry these days you can put it down that she is doing all she can do supporting herself.

People seem naturally inclined to look higher. Nine out of ten who wear glasses look through the top half.

LIFE'S LITTLE AGONIES

"Now, girls," said the restaurant manager, "I want you all to look your best today. Add a little extra dab of powder to your cheeks, use the lip-stick a little more liberally and take extra care with your hair."

"Why, what's the matter?" inquired the head-waitress. "Butter bad again?"

The prominent citizen who announces he will give half the money for a civic memorial, if the residents will raise the other half, so often is disappointed by the town's liberality.

The price of whisky is to be raised on July 1. And to think, just before the Fourth of July! The government needs the money.

There is one good time coming—roasting ear time.

Spy Scares Don't "Take." United States Belittles Idea Columnist Stewart Explains Why

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, June 28.—International spy scares in normal times do not "take" well in the United States.

During the period of our participation in the World war, when we were pretty cuckoo, we took spy stories somewhat seriously, although even then we were not as dotty concerning them as European peoples were. Today, however, attempts to stir up an espionage sensation in our midst are pooh-poohed quite generally.

The recent big batch of indictments of supposed secret agents here from overseas "makes first page," to be sure, but it fails to excite the American public appreciably.

"UNHEALTHY"

Which is all to the good. A national spy complex is unhealthy, because it verges on widespread "nuttiness."

It does in the United States anyway.

Europe is a little different. There contacts are so close that an espionage agent can stand with one foot on his own side of an international frontier and his other foot on the other side, in spied-upon territory. We cannot be spied upon in this fashion except across the Canadian and Mexican borders, and no sensible American is afraid of spying from either of these two different directions.

A "RISK"

True, the theory is advanced that a European air fleet might sail across the Atlantic and bomb New York or that a similar Asiatic fleet might trans-navigate the Pacific and blow up San Francisco.

But who is so "bughouse" as to regard either of those risks as a reasonable possibility?

And what spy could furnish a future imaginable invader with any information relative to New York's or San Francisco's vulnerabilities with which such invader is not already familiar?

SECRET GAGETS

We probably have some little army and navy gadgets which we think we are keeping secret against eventualities.

But the chances are that they don't amount to much.

In any event, each foreign embassy and legation in Washington has a military and naval attache, whose job it is to discover, study and report on all such inventions. These attaches are on friendly professional terms with our own experts, and they exchange ideas and information. We learn what their home folk are doing; they learn what we're doing. There isn't a deal of secrecy about it.

If one lone continent's scientists hit on a record-breaking death-ray or something, that might be kept bottled up—but, hooey!

WHY AMATEURS?

Is it likely that any corps of amateur secret agents can outclass the official staffs of our diplomatic corps in our capital?

For example (to quote press stuff and indictments), the "red-headed hair-dresser" on the German transatlantic liner So-and-So? Of how much value is her spying apt to be?—in comparison with "dope" officially transmitted by Germany's diplomatically accredited attaches?

Not that there is not criticism of the German embassy's reports either.

WORTH IT?

There is this distinction.

German and Japanese and Italian diplomatic reports are according to official form.

Red-headed German girls and Japanese fishermen off San Diego and questionable Italians in lower New York are engaged in espionage operations.

These folk are a nuisance, maybe. But nothing to get up a temperature about.

Don't let us permit ourselves to develop a spy snare over them.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1938 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Twenty-four years ago today two shots that the pride of the German pistol shots were fired into the mercantile marine would soon ride bodies of a man and a woman, the Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria and Sophia, his Archduchess. The fatal reports of those pistol shots led to the death of ten million men, to the squandering in war of one hundred and eighty billions of dollars. They came very near, indeed, to wrecking civilization.

It is interesting to stand on a peak of time and look back on the world as we knew it then—a comfortable, easy-going, hopeful world—a world hypnotized by the illusion of peace. A distinguished publicist had just assumed a better and true idea understanding among the great powers. A great scholar had just predicted the end of all war.

Inaudible was the ironical laughter of Satan's imps who knew what was really taking place in the chancelleries and the council chambers. With the vision of damned souls they could see the rivers of blood that were about to redden the earth and the sea. Here and there were spasms of revolt and mutters of trouble—nothing, it seemed, to take alarm about.

In London the Suffragettes were knocking the king's hat off and screaming in the parks. Theodore Roosevelt had just returned from South America, carrying the germs of a jungle fever which was to end his life. Ty Cobb was leading the American league in batting. United States Steel was selling at 60, and General Motors at 92. Paris was gay on the eve of the glamorous Grand Prix.

The brilliant Welshman, Lloyd George, was abolishing poverty, or so he thought. The tango and the maxixe were flicking the feet of the pre-flappers and the young men were called cake-eaters in that strange and remote period. Ladies were dressing in very long skirts which clung to their ankles and ballooned oddly about their hips. It was the day of the bobble skirt.

You could go to see a good play for two dollars and the popular plays of the time were "Seven Keys to Baldpate" and "Potash and Perlmutter". William Fox had spent $800,000 making a picture called Neptune's Daughter" with Annette Kellerman in tights, and Carl Laemmle was getting ready to spend a million on "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea", starring Jane Gail.

New trans-atlantic liners were luring sea-goers and fighting for the blue ribbon of speed records. The Cunard Line was advertising the sailing of the Lusitania on July 14 at 6 p. m., little dreaming that less than ten months would see that noble ship fathoms down on the ocean floor off the Irish coast and with the bodies of 1200 human beings. The Vaterland, of the Hamburg-American Line, was sailing on July 7, and not a man alive could imag-

What Noted People Say

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Charles Walsh, Navy's crew coach in a hospital with an injured back.

"Navy will win the big race. They'll fight harder than ever now that this has happened."

WASHINGTON—John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee:

"Mr. Roosevelt's attempt to divide himself miraculously into two separate and distinct personalities is so amusing as to bring to mind Pooh Bah, of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado."

HOLLYWOOD—Albertina Rasch, former famous danseuse, now a stage and film dance director, viewing proposals that the government establish a national corps de ballet and dance academy:

"The American people would regard it as ridiculous for the government to exercise paternal control of the dancing art."

DETROIT—William Lyon Phelps, Yale professor:

"Law and duty made the great Roman Empire and it has made the British Empire the greatest nation in the world today. But love will bring all nations together."

Peace And War Trophy Display At Library

The display case of the Free Public Library building at North and Mercer street again holds immense interest for the public in the form of a Peace and War trophy display as a prelude to the coming Independence celebration on July 4th. Miss Alice Stephens and Mrs. F. G. Simonton, of Edinburg, have arranged a clever display from old and aged documents and other various souvenirs, preserved from time dating from the Revolutionary War period to the World War days.

In the 1775 period are many interesting things with educational importance, tinged with humor [illegible] which are a magazine, named the American Monthly Museum, which is a paper in book form with many news bits of the battles of the time, Bunker Hill and Ticonderoga, gossip, and useful household materials. Most amusing is the title page which gives the editor's name, the city, Philadelphia, and the fact that the news building is directly across from the London Coffee House, in view of the fact that there are no streets properly named. A map of the north end out town of Boston and its Provincial Camp is also a part of this ancient paper.

Legal documents, written in a matchless manner and manuscript, and made on skin parchments, tell of orderly soldiers, who have been given tracts of land, their payments, the survey of the place which is made equally interesting with a map of each rock and tree of the land, of orderliness and fidelity to the army, and a large certificate of actual purchase of land. All are affixed with the Pennsylvania seal and several witnesses, some American and clearly written and others in German and unreadable to the common eye.

The War of 1812 is brought to thought with the showings of bullets and ammunition of that time. There is shown a powder can, which was used by the soldiers as a place in which to place their bullet patches and bullets and was put into actual use by their placing their finger over the end and in turn, filling the nozzle and loading the gun, which in the case was usually a flintlock, or a muzzle loading gun. A picture of Robert Simonton, whose grandson fought in the Civil War, who is also pictured, is shown in the old daguerreotype style. The Mexican War of 1830 is framed with a picture of a Zouave, which is a soldier of that time who wore a uniform copied from the French infantry, similar in form and color to an Arab's dress and costume.

Bullets, buttons of different officers, uniforms, bullets' molds, shells, from the sites of Gettysburg, Antietam, Murpheysboro, and the Battle of the Wilderness along with a huge painting of a soldier's leave taking with the dress and styles of the period, and a camp magazine called, The Camp Kettle, daily army orders, constitute the demonstration for the Civil War times. The famed painting of Lee's surrender to Grant is marked also.

Reports, legible in clear Spanish, of money, patrols, and lists of soldiers, with an interesting paper of beautifully constructed and equably written Spanish of the constitution of the bylaws of the company of men in the regiment, displayed, form the Spanish American period.

Dealing mainly with the Independence idea, is a series of paintings depicting the "Bell's First Note", "Making the Flag", "The Writing of the Declaration of Independence", "Franklin's Book Shop", and the serious tone of "George and Martha Washington at Valley Forge", by the well known J. G. Ferris, which are placed in a popular corner of the library for all to see.

At the end of the week, there will be a showing of World War materials.

The Human Side Of The News

the darkening end of an age. No one recognized what terrible forces were in motion under all the receptive tranquility and pursuit of pleasure. No one perceived the abyss which was to engulf and destroy ten million men and cripple civilization. The world stumbled headlong into it, just as Marshal Ney's horsemen plunged blindly to destruction at Waterloo in the sunken road of Ohain. It's strange that the murders made so little stir.

On July 1, 1914, the consequences of crime committed on that June day in Sarajevo were not yet even guessed at. No one foresaw the peremptory and humiliating demands that Austria was to hurl at Serbia. No one foresaw that Germany would accuse Russia of inspiring the murder.

Rusia mobilized. The great German war machine went into action. Within a month Europe was a madhouse and mass murder was such a commonplace of the day that the killing of thousands was barely reported in the dispatches. It was not until months after the tragedy at Sarajevo, months after the war began, that the world realized how fatally it had been fooled by a mere illusion of peace back in the years of felicity.

It was the roar of cannon that taught the bitter truth that only an excuse was required to free all the devils of hell. Cynical old diplomats, trained in the heartless schools of Metternich and Talleyrand, had a hand in the dreadful saturnalia of the Great War. The great munitions-makers had a hand in it, and even the most secret records of the Wilhelmstrasse, of the Quai D'Orsay or of Downing Street would reveal what subtle provocative methods were employed by the armament kings of Europe to set nations at each other's throats.

Ancient injustices and hatreds had a hand in it, for war settles nothing, and bad treaties then, as now, are like so much bad blood in the human body. With all this in the past—with the world still littered with the wreckage of the great war, it is shocking to find Europe more heavily armed than ever.

Teh same old racial and national jealousies which made the Great War possible are seething to produce an even greater one. What the world needs most, to assure peace, is a removal—in a spirit of mutual give-and-take, in a spirit of necessary sacrifice—of old grievances, the perpetual breeders of war.

If civilization, knowing the cause of the last great war, permits another war to grow out of those same causes, then civilization deserves to go under, for it is not intelligent enough to save.

Ringling Circus Enroute To South

Three Sections Of "Greatest Show On Earth" Leave Scranton

SEASON'S TOUR MOST DISASTROUS

(International News Service)

SCRANTON, Pa., June 28.—Southward-bound in three sections, the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus moved out of Scranton today for its winter quarters in Sarasota, Fla., ending a luckless season after a six-day strike.

John Ringling North, youthful head of the "Greatest Show on Earth," was expected to issue a statement concerning his future plans when the circus reaches Washington, D. C.

The first section of the rail troupe left here at 3:55 a. m., the second at 4:30 a. m., and the third at 5:30 a. m.

Just before the circus left here, North was presented with petitions signed by hundreds of performers and other employes signifying they were agreeable to accept the 25 per cent wage cut that caused the 1600 circus workers to walk out on strike last Wednesday.

Will Make Statement

It was then that North indicated he would have something to say at Washington.

In a last-minute flareup at midnight last night a number of employes loading the circus trains went on strike again and demanded two more days pay. After a conference of circus officials and Ralph Whitehead, secretary of the American Federation of Actors, the show officials agreed to pay the men under protest and the strikers returned to work.

Barely a third of its summer tour was completed—a scant nine weeks—when the walkout of performers, roustabouts, and trainers hit the circus. Rain marked many days of the weeks on the road.

North said the wage cut was necessitated by losses running between $5,000 and $7,000 a day. Both sides were firm in their stands, bringing mediation attempts by Mayor Fred J. Huester of Scranton and other local officials.

Tragedy Occurs

Tragedy touched the situation just as Mayor Huester, holding the stranded show a menace to public health, ordered North to move the troupe from Scranton. Two local newspaper photographers, making camera "shots" from an airplane, crashed to their deaths amid the stalled equipment on the circus grounds. The plane just missed striking the "big top."

Heavy rains of the past few days delayed the departure for Florida. Circus officials wished to avoid loading wet canvas that during the trip south might catch fire by spontaneous combustion. The decision to move on was coupled with plans to make stops enroute to dry the soaked tents.

Grand Jury Will Probe Shortages

Shortage Alleged In Mercer County And Farrell School District Tax Collection

(International News Service)

MERCER, Pa., June 28.—A September grand jury investigation of alleged shortages of $57,930.87 in the Mercer county and Farrell school district tax collection accounts of former tax collector Joseph Cantelupe, Farrell, was promised today by District Attorney E. C. Moon.

Moon learned a special audit recently made by Sharon auditors at the request of the school district and the county commissioners showed the school account was short $30,350.39 and the county account, $25,535.48, he said. Cantelupe retired in 1935 after serving 12 years as tax collector.

Both the county and the school district have asked the bonding companies under which Cantelupe held surety bonds, to settle the accounts. The report of the auditors showed the following alleged shortages: 1933—county tax, $15,344.05; school tax, $21,023.34. 1934—county tax, $101.26; school, $1,528.21. 1935—county tax, $10,090.17; school, $7,745.55.

SCIOLA-GILLEST WEDDING MONDAY

Wedding bells pealed out Monday morning for one of the most impressive ceremonies of the summer months when the Rev. Fr. Nicholas DeMita, pastor of St. Vitus church, joined together in holy matrimony Miss Martha Sciola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Sciola of R. F. D. No. 7, Ellwood City road, and Ernest J. Gillest, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gillest of 810 Cunningham avenue.

The ring ceremony was performed before an assemblage of friends and relatives of the couple. The bride, gowned in white satin, a veil of real lace and carrying an armful of calla lilies and orchids, was given in marriage by her father. Miss Catherine Maccarella, West Pittsburg, as maid of honor, was attired in a pink net gown and carried yellow roses.

Ernest Squire of Pittsburgh, a close associate of the groom, served as best man.

The bridesmaids, who wore blue organdie gowns, were: Misses Rose Salvati of Ellwood City, Pauline Nucci, Margaret Donofrio and Jessie Sciola, a sister of the bride. Ushers included Louis Sorto, Frank Setting of Monaca, John Marchelletta, Anthony Cappolina and Edward Gillest, the groom's brother.

Following the church services the bridal party, members of the immediate families and a host of guests gathered in King Humbert hall on Division street for a wedding dinner. Monday evening several hundred persons were present at a reception tendered the popular couple in King Humbert hall. Late last evening Mr. and Mrs. Gillest departed for an extended wedding trip, traveling extensively throughout the east. They will reside at 810 Cunningham avenue.

Among the out of town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sciola and family of Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roncone and family of Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Marcella of Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Salvati of Ellwood City and Mr. and Mrs. James Joseph of Ellwood City. (International News Service)

TOLEDO, O., June 28.—With a track so muddy that the field could get no closer than 12 feet from the rail, harness racing under floodlights at the Fort Miami track was off to an auspicious start today.

Billy Direct, which last year equaled the world race record of 1:58 set by Directum I in 1914, took the feature event on last night's card by capturing the free-for-all pace. He reeled off winning trips in 2:04 1-4 and 2:05 over the heavy track to take the second and third heats.

June Azoff took the first heat of the feature in 2:02 1-4 after Billy Direct bounced into the air as he led going into the stretch.

REVEALS THERE IS NO TIME LIMIT ON MOVIE KISSES

(International News Service)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—There is no time limit on movie kisses, despite popular opinion to the contrary, according to Charles C. Pettijohn, general counsel for the Motion Pictures Producers and Distributors of America, who recently visited Indianapolis.

"The same rule applies to kissing in the movies as applies to everyday life," Pettijohn asserted. "You hang on as long as your conscience permits or until someone walks in on you. It's the same in the movies.

"I've never held a stop-watch on a pair of screen lovers in my life."

The movie industry is receiving fine advertising that "the toughest crapshooter in the country wants the movies kept clean for his children to see," Pettijohn added.

Negro Dies In Columbus Chair

Thomas B. Williams, 20, Steubenville, First To Die By Automatic Voltage

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., June 28.—In a setting charged with the fantastic atmosphere of unbelievable drama, 20-year-old Thomas B. Williams, Steubenville negro, was electrocuted in Ohio Penitentiary and today there were 14 persons left in death row and a group of amazed prison officials still shaking their heads over Williams' strange exhibition.

For twenty long minutes Williams, who was convicted of the murder of Reuben I. Mirvis, Steubenville synagogue caretaker, sat strapped in the chair and talked and sang, chanted from the Bible and maintained his execution was unjust because a "confession was beaten from him."

Declares Innocence

Smiling, he walked into the death chamber at 8:40 p. m. After being granted permission to talk, he said:

"Gentlemen, my execution is unjust. I am innocent of murder. My sister lied about me to save her own husband who was in jail on another crime and who faced prosecution too, because he was a parole violator. I signed a confession only after Jefferson county officials beat me with a rubber hose."

Then he asked for a Bible and read the 14th chapter of St. John—"In my father's house are many mansions," he intoned and slowly, finished the holy words. Quickly then, half hysterical, he burst into song, weird chantings, hymns that ran into minutes.

Finally he recited the 23rd Psalm. After 20 minutes of this, the death mask was placed over his head. The current was turned on at 9 p. m. and he was pronounced dead five minutes later. It was the first time an automatic voltage control was used in the death house.

Two Injured As Auto Hits Pole

New Jersey Residents Suffer Slight Injuries On Wilmington Road, Monday

Mrs. Laura Roach, aged 59, and her son, Joseph Roach, aged 30, of Grantboro, N. J., suffered injuries Monday afternoon, about 3:30 o'clock, when the automobile driven by Mr. Roach swerved from the highway and struck a telephone pole on the New Wilmington cement road, six miles north of the city. They are undergoing treatment in the Jameson Memorial hospital.

The impact of the collision broke off the pole and knocked it some distance, yet neither of those injured were seriously hurt. Mrs. Roach received lacerations of the scalp and is suffering from shock, while Mr. Roach suffered contusions of the right knee.

Other occupants of the machine escaped uninjured except for minor bruises.

"Whodunit" Thrills On Opening Night

Provincial Players Score In Presenting "The Night Of January 16th"

Not everybody in the audience agreed with the jury's verdict Monday night that Karen Andre was not guilty of the murder of Bjorn Faulkner, but the verdict was unanimous that the Provincial Players had done a nice job in presenting the "Whodunit" of Ayn Rand, "The Night of January 16th". It was the second play presented by the Provincial Players in their own playhouse at Beckford and East Washington streets and the work of the players showed improvement over their first one "The Milky Way".

"The Night of January 16th" is the story of the death of Bjorn Faulkner a crooked stock promoter who is married to Nancy Lee Whitfield, daughter of a local big business man. Faulkner is in love with his secretary Karen Andre and the two of them conspire to park ten million in securities in Buenos Aires and then go down there. In order to make it look like suicide the body of a gangster Lefty O'Toole is stolen after a murder and Miss Andre pushes him off the penthouse roof, the idea being to have the police believe it is Faulkner.

Faulkner leaves to take a plane to South America but is murdered and the police arrest Karen Andre for the crime. In order to decide as to her guilt the jury is selected from the audience and the case is tried in three acts. The jury can return either a verdict of acquittal or guilty and the Monday night jury said Miss Andre didn't do it. They may convict her tonight or tomorrow night the last night of the show.

The Provincial Players fill a need for dramatic expression in New Castle and deserve the support of the drama lovers. The crowd Monday night could have been much larger but the crowd may be waiting for the second night. If it is, it will not be disappointed for the play is well staged, well directed and well presented. The cast:

Prison Matron—Sylvia Sturdevant.
Judge Heath—Bernard Hook.
District Attorney Flint—James Sotus.
Defense Attorney Stevens—Terry May.

Nine Escape From Death In Flood

J. Nathan Knight And Family, And Wife's Niece And Son, Saved As Auto Is Swept Away

Perhaps the most harrowing experience of any, which occurred during Saturday night's cloudburst and flood, was that experienced by Mr. and Mrs. J. Nathan Knight, and family, of R. F. D. No. 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Knight and their children, together with Mrs. Dorothy Shaffer and son, of Aliquippa, were returning to their home from their summer camp along the Little Neshannock, driven out by the fear of high water, when their auto came up onto a small bridge over Rock Creek, a mile north of Lakewood. Just as the front wheels of the car struck the bridge, it started to sink with the weight of the car.

Mr. Knight dragged the eight other occupants of the car to safety and returned to try and back the car away, when he discovered it was gone. Had he driven onto the bridge a little further, they would all have been swept into the turbulent waters and drowned.

Search Sunday morning, revealed the auto 250 feet down an arm, where it was covered with water and debris.

MRS. SIMMS AT SEARCH FOR SON

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms at search on mountain; cliff where missing young man was sought is at bottom

As hundreds of searchers continued their hunt on Sandia mountain in New Mexico for the missing John Medill McCormick, 21-year-old scion of the Chicago publishing family, the boy's mother, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, former congresswoman from Illinois, sat on a roadside nearby, her nerves tautened by days of strain. Finding of the body of Richard Whitmer, companion of McCormick on the mountain-climbing expedition, spurred the searchers. Whitmer apparently fell to his death from the cliff in background. It was here that the search was centered.

City Dwellers Warned To Acquire Much Sought-For Sun Tan In Small Doses

(International News Service)

INDIANAPOLIS Ind., June 28.—City dwellers who come out of a winter's hibernation for some of that golden-brown sun tan should take it easily according to Dr. Herman G. Morgan, secretary of the Indiana Board of Health.

"Summer is the healthiest part of the year in this climate and sunshine generally is considered one of nature's best remedies, but like any other beneficial agent it can be overdone," Dr. Morgan warned.

His suggestions were:

1. Don't rely on oil applications to save you from severe burn.

2. Be particularly careful if you are in the middle-age group or already suffer from physical infirmities.

3. You can get as much sun in your own backyard as near water.

4. Breathe all the fresh air you can to clear your respiratory tracts of soot and carbon soaked up during the winter.

5. Drive carefully when in pursuit of summer health and outdoor recreation so an accident won't cut short your vacation.

"With the advent of summer and the desire of the majority of persons to enjoy outdoor recreation, the usual crop of sunburns soon will be ready to harvest," he said.

"Severe sunburns not only are annoying and painful but can readily throw an overload on the kidneys, skin and other excretory organs. Moderation should be the axiom with those who have to lead an indoor life during the winter months until the body muscles regain their lost tone."

AROUND CITY HALL

Joseph Dagnon resides in West Laurel avenue and according to his report to council yesterday, 25 feet of his property is being used as a cartway. The avenue was ordained but never graded nor opened. He asked the council yesterday to do something so that he can use his own property. It is likely that he will be required to obtain signatures to a petition before the avenue can be graded. However, he has the alternative of fencing in his own property. Dagnon also reported that there is a huge hole in the avenue where rubbish and garbage is dumped. This was tossed in the lap of Director of public Safety J. M. Rice who as head of the health department will probably take action at once to stop the practice.

Public Safety Director J. M. Rice stated in council Monday that a fire-alarm box is located within one block of every schoo.. It appears that the school board wants the city to install a master box in every school which caused Mayor Charles E. McGrath to remark: "If the city paves in front of schools, the board should at least provide their own boxes."

As soon as the bill which regulates opening and closing hours for barber shops has been printed and returned to council the latter will take a final vote on the measure. The barbers asked for the regulatory measure, not council. The attorney for the barbers said that 95 percent of the barbers employed here want council to adopt the measure.

Women's International Labor league, local 456, has gone on record as being in favor of a new city building, according to a communication presented to council.

Thomas C. Farrow, John Wineck, Thomas J. Boyles and Clarence F. Welsh have been appointed temporary policemen for a period of 10 days. They are on the eligible list for permanent appointment.

Council has adopted measures providing for the erection of stone walls around the Diamond park plots and also for the redemption of $125,000 worth of bonds, due August 1. The city has $60,000, in the sinking fund and will sell $65,000 worth of refunding bonds at a low rate of interest to pay off the 1923 issue which has been drawing 4½ percent.

Liquor Dealers Lose Decision

Several Hundred Former Liquor Dealers Are Denied License In Dry Areas

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—Several hundred former liquor licensees in communities where the sale of liquor is restricted by deed on Monday lost their battle to force the State Liquor Control Board to grant them new licenses when their appeals were dismissed by the State superior court here.

The liquor board had refused to renew the licenses when they expired and an appeal was taken to the superior court as a test case by John McGettigan and his partner, who operate a cafe in Philadelphia. Among the several boroughs affected by the decision are Ambridge in Beaver county and Kane in McKean county.

May Take Appeal

It was believed an immediate appeal will be taken to the State supreme court.

The case was argued before the State superior court in Harrisburg last March 18. Counsel opposing the board held that the deed restrictions were purely private contractual relations and that it was not up to the board to decide upon them. The Liquor Control Board cited a decision of the superior court in which it held that deed restrictions were legally binding and also a decision of the court of quarter sessions at Philadelphia which agreed with the superior court's decision provided no objections were raised by legally interested parties.

Business Has Now Reached Upswing

Secretary Of Commerce Roper Declares Business Is Picking Up

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Secretary of Commerce Roper reports that business has approached a "upward swing" and that a survey of the industrial situation shows that wholesale and retail inventories are in a greatly improved condition.

Addressing the International Association of Display Men in convention, Roper contended that economic opportunities now existing justify "prompt dynamic initiative."

"Reports received by the Department of Commerce reflect a greatly improved inventory situation in wholesale and retail lines as a result of a recently inaugurated wave of merchandising effort to stimulate buying consciousness," he declared. "The success of this revived merchandising initiative will appreciably affect factories, operations, stimulate employment and aid transportation.

"Now is the time for business to set its sail to the forward current and prepare for participation in the new forming upward swing."

"Finest automobile ever produced for the money!"

Read this letter from Wayne C. Brewer: "Several months ago I purchased my seventh Ford in ten years. As usual, I took delivery of the new car without a demonstration, knowing that it would be better than the previous one. But the agreeable surprise I got when I drove my 1938 De Luxe Tudor is the reason for this letter.

"The greatly improved riding qualities, the comfortable, roomy seats with easy adjustments, the easy handling, the mechanical brakes that give a feeling of real safety, and an excellent V-8 engine averaging 19 miles per gallon—traveling around 44 miles an hour. And, of course, it's so very smart looking. You can quote me as saying that the De Luxe Ford V-8 is the finest automobile ever produced for the money."

Unofficially and completely off the record, it is understood that the annual picnic of the bar association and court house attaches, employes and officials will be held on the last Saturday in July. At least this is the word of some of the younger barristers who are already in training for the annual mushball game.

The place of the picnic will probably be the same, a spot over in Butler county which is found by the aid of a campass, a tachometer and a flock of trained carrier pigeons.

After last year's showing in the mushball game the lawyers are considering drafting a few law students who still can get around the bases without to aid of a bicycle.

Most of Monday was spent on the Youngstown road by the county commissioners, settling damage claims. Only a few remain and these will be settled soon it is anticipated. The road will be opened shortly.

A new trial was refused Rudy Ginocci by Judge W. Walter Braham on Monday. Ginocci was convicted in a numbers charge and appealed for a new trial. Unless the conviction is appealed to the higher courts, sentence will be passed.

Says Al Capone Has Lost Mind

Former Train Robber Who Served Time At Alcatraz Says Capone's Mind Is Blank

(International News Service)

LON ANGELES, June 28. — If Al Capone, former Chicago underworld and liquor czar, lives out his term in Alcatraz prison he will reenter the world as a "worthless huck of a man, for his mind is gone."

That was the opinion today of Roy Gardner, former sensational mail train robber and jail breaker, who did time with Capone on "The Rock" in San Francisco Bay before being transferred to Leavenworth prison.

Hatred of the once powerful gang leader by the other convicts, attempts on his life and "hell nights" have broken the man who for years seemed beyond the reach of the law, Gardner declared.

Recently released from Leavenworth after serving three sentences for mail train robberies in the southwest in 1919 and 1920, Gardner said "Hell Nights" are the long sleepless hours when the imagination of a prisoner begins to play tricks.

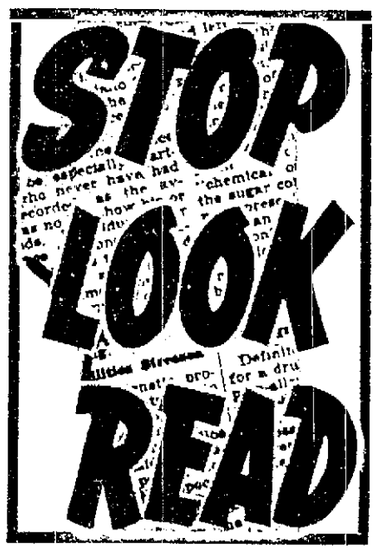

"A fellow like Capone just sits there, staring at the blank wall," the former "Lone Wolf" train robber said. "He gets to thinking of the grand times he used to have. How he ordered politicians around. The money he spent and the parties he gave."

Unpressed pleated skirts are something new. The pleats are held in by being stitched down flat, or tucked at the hips. Often they are grouped only at the center front.

POTATO PRICES

HARRISBURG—L. T. Dennison, of the Potato Interests Section of the State Department of Agriculture points out that in 1921 (a depression year) the potato crop of 250,000,000 bushels in the seventeen late-producing states brought a total return to growers of $267,000,000 while in 1928 (a prosperity year) a crop of 304,000,000 bushels yielded a total return to the growers of only $148,000,000.

Believe Hitler Will Attempt Annexation Of Danzig

Least Dangerous Expansion Move

Poland Would Be Chief Country With Interests Affected

DIPLOMATS ARE WATCHING EVENTS

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Copyright, 1938.

PARIS, June 28—Where Chancellor Hitler will attempt to strike next is a question which overshadows the Spanish problem in Europe at this moment, and today German annexation of Danzig is expected to be the Fuehrer's comeback after his defeat over Czechoslovakia.

That this may happen soon is the belief in diplomatic circles, where it is held that of all possible conflicts which Germany's expansionist policy might evoke capture of Danzig would be the least dangerous, although possibility of war would not be excluded.

Evidence in favor of this view is based first upon the isolation of Poland, whose interests would be primarily affected by Danzig's incorporation in the Reich.

Polish foreign minister Joseph Beck, whom the French describe as the most unpopular statesman in Europe, has so alienated them by his equivocal attitude that it is believed France would refuse to support Poland in armed defense of Danzig.

But without French support Poland could not afford to fight Germany, and hence Chancellor Hitler could anticipate a walkover.

This is now the only point of a possible German push where a conflict is unlikely. All the others contain a menace like that in Czechoslovakia.

Second is the fact that Polish-German relationships, which have been good on the surface since Hitler's non-aggression pact with Marshal Pilsudski in 1934, are now rapidly becoming worse, while signs of German interest in Polish defenses are accumulating.

Refunding Bonds Sold By Board

School Board Sells $85,000 Worth Of Bonds At Two Per Cent

Refinancing two sets of four and four and a quarter per cent bonds, the New Castle school board disposed of $85,000 worth on Monday night to Halsey, Stuart and Company at their bid of par plus $472.60 premium for a two per cent bond.

The bonds are in $1,000 denominations and are callable $12,000 per year for six years and $13,000 the last year. The price is probably the most attractive ever obtained by the board in borrowing money. By calling the 4 and 4½ per cent bonds and substituting them with these new 2 per cent bonds the board will save $18,000 in the six years. The board will assume all taxes charged against these new bonds.

Ten bids were received in all, but none of them were close to the Halsey, Stuart and Company bid.

Brothers Meet After 35 Years

Back in 1903 the Saxton family of Corning, N. Y., was broken up by the death of the mother. One of the boys, Herber U. Saxton was 17 years of age and started out to see the world. That was the last he ever saw of his three-year-old brother, Willard J. Saxton, until Monday, June 27, when Willard walked into Herbert's home at 632 John street.

As soon as he was able to travel Willard had started on some world wide roaming himself, being located for a time in South America. Recently he attended a convention of the United Auto Workers and there found another brother, Walter B. Saxton, who resides in Milwaukee, Wisconson.

The two brothers enjoyed a reunion on Monday and promised each other it wouldn't be 35 years more until they were together again.

Dotted veils tied under the chin are being used on the bonnet style of hats for the youngsters.

"Political Relief" Charge Is Revived

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Leaders of the big putsch to provide millions of jobs and spur recovery, now getting into their stride, were distracted today by revival of the charge of "political relief."

The charge was based on the remarks Aubrey Williams, deputy W. P. A. administrator, made yesterday to the convention of the Workers' Alliance of America, an organization of W. P. A. workers. He told the delegates "to keep your friends in power" in the forthcoming elections and "to judge us by the crowd we run with."

Senator King (D) of Utah, declared he will insist that the special senate campaign expenditures committee investigate Williams' speech on the ground, he said, that Williams was using his position with the government to influence the votes of relief workers.

Senator Sheppard (D) of Texas, chairman of the committee, deferred comment on what action he would favor until he has read the text of Williams' speech. He will try to get a quorum of the committee together today for a meeting at which the "Williams' incident" probably will be discussed.

Divorce W. P. A. And Politics

Senator Hatch (D) of New Mexico, who failed at the last session of congress to outlaw the use of relief funds in politics by federal statute, said:

"I have repeatedly made my position clear. I believe that the P. W. A. and politics should be completely divorced."

This was the second time a high W. P. A. official has been accused of injecting relief into politics. Williams' immediate chief, W. P. A. Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, was accused of such action a few week ago, just prior to the Iowa election, when he told reporters if he were voting in Iowa he would vote for Rep. Otha Wearin for U. S. Senator in place of the incumbent, Senator Guy M. Gillette, Anti-New Deal Democrats and Republicans interpreted Hopkins' statement as a tip to Iowa's W. P. A. workers that the Washington headquarters expected them to vote for Wearin. Gillette, however, was renominated for another term.

'Love' Striker Is Determined

Attorney Tries To Persuade Mrs. Hedi Heusser To Leave Blanchard Home

UNABLE TO BUDGE ADAMANT FEMALE

(International News Service)

IRVINGTON, N. Y., June 28.—Wealthy Rollo K. Blanchard politely extended the hospitality of his home to Mrs. Hedi Heusser, who continued her "lie-down strike" there today, but still believed her request for marriage was too much.

Asked about a legal move to oust his unwelcome red-haired guest, who is in her second week of possession, Blanchard, through his attorney, stated:

"We're not getting any court order. That's nonsense. The Blanchard home has always been known for its hospitality. The lady is a guest as long as she wants to be. But it's going to be a long, hard winter."

Talks With Lawyer

And while her host divided his time between the Tarrytown Yacht club and a White Plains hotel, the divorcee had a brief window-to-ground consultation with her attorney, Mortimer C. O'Brien. Blanchard's guards refused to admit him to the house.

Standing in the rain below her room, O'Brien shouted:

"You have no more right to be there than I have. All Mr. Blanchard has to do is swear out a warrant against you charging trespass."

"He won't go that far. He loves me," came the woman's reply, adding "All I want to talk about is marriage. I love him and he loves me."

Letters and newspapers were hoisted to Mrs. Heusser through the window, and she tossed O'Brien a $50 bill for her two children, who have remained at her apartment with a housekeeper.

"I guess maybe I'll stay a little longer," she announced.

Lottery Broached At Cleveland, O., For Relief Help

May Conduct $5,000,000 Lottery To Take Care Of Relief Situation

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, June 28.—The City of Cleveland will conduct a huge $5,000,000 lottery to raise relief funds—if a council bloc headed by Raymond J. Taylor and John M. Novak, has its way, it appeared today.

Council last night passed legislation, sponsored by the two councilmen, establishing a five-man "direct relief" committee to work out plans for a fund-raising "show" in public hall or the lakefront stadium. Mayor Harold H. Burton signed the measure immediately.

Taylor and Novak have been seeking a way to circumvent federal and state anti-lottery laws in order to conduct a city-operated lottery. If they are successful, they indicated, the "show" would take that form.

Tickets, they said, would be sold for one dollar. On the night of the "show" a percentage of the receipts would be distributed to lucky ticket holders as cash door prizes whether or not the winner is present.

Mayor Burton said the food orders to be distributed tomorrow, will be for ten days or two weeks. They will be the first regular food orders to go out to the city's 60,000 relief clients since April 15.

NYA Youths In Cleanup Project

Clear Away Brush And Debris From Rural Avenue Hillside

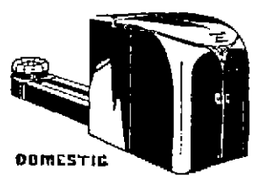

Attention is drawn to various new outdoor projects carried on by the National Youth Administration which are beginning to make a showing as far as assisting in the beautification of our city is concerned.

One piece of work which may not be seen by every one was that of clearing off the hillside along Rural avenue. A number of male youth, paid by the National Youth Administration, have been busy for some time with shovels and wheelbarrows carrying away debris, grubbing off useless undergrowth, and generally cleaning and raking up whatever needed to be taken out. For several feet up the hillside, the workers graded, filling in wherever necessary gulleys or low places, so that planting may be done later on for further beautification.

Imported tie silk is being sold for blouses. It is featured in 24 to 36-inch widths.

Police Arrest CIO Organizers And Also Pickets

(International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS, June 28—A show down in the bitter conflict between police and the CIO loomed today as police resumed their arrests of CIO organizers and pickets in connection with the union's strike at nine major firms.

The arrests of the CIO men came on the heels of an announcement by the CIO here that the department of justice at Washington has promised to investigate charges that police here have violated the civic rights of citizens.

John J. Grosch, acting superintendent of police said:

"There is no room in New Orleans for the CIO-communists. They sent a lot of beef men here from San Francisco to agitate among the negroes.

With several CIO leaders being held in jail, Grosch said that when police arrested others he was going to "run them out of town."

Fifty Girls At Camp East Brook

Two Weeks' Stay At Y. W. Camp Is Started On Monday

According to reports from Mrs. Helen Sloane Braun, camp director, and Jane McCune, camp nurse and dietician, the fifty little girls who yesterday began their two weeks stay at Camp East Brook are well and happy, and are already engaged in camp activities.

The age of the campers range from seven to twelve years, and for many this is their first camping experience, but despite youth and inexperience no signs of home-sickness are evident, probably because each girl is so busy with the camp program. Miss Marguerite White, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. suggests, however, that letters from home, tomorrow morning will be greatly appreciated and enjoyed. The camp address is Camp East Brook R. D. No. 5, New Castle Pa.

Yesterday the formalities of registration and unpacking were discharged first, and counsellors and campers had a chance to get acquainted. Then swimming try out were held, in order to divide the campers into three swimming groups tad-poles, frogs and fishes. After supper the evening's program called for a discussion of interest groups, and a period of group singing.

This morning they swung into the regular camp program, which begins the day with inspection. Interest groups come next with each girl making her choice of dramatics, taught by Margaret Shaw; first aid taught by Jane McCune; music, taught by Ruth McCandless and nature study, taught by Marjorie Christie. For three periods following, the tad-poles, frogs and fish take turns at swimming lessons, studying handicraft, under Helena Burckhart, during their free period. Of course, lunch is next in line, followed by rest hour. Then another period of interest groups, with a free swimming period before supper.

Planned for the evenings are such things as a wiener roast, treasure-hunt, fairy tale night, and stunt night, which is scheduled for tonight. On the Fourth of July, a play day has been arranged, concluding with a picnic supper, and an evening of folk dancing and singing.

Indians Win Over Red Sox

Young Bob Feller Outpitches Lefty Bob Grove As League Leaders Win 7-3

NO GAMES IN NATIONAL LOOP

By ANTHONY J. FUGLIESE
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 28.—Spurred by successive conquests over their two chief rivals in the American league race, the Cleveland Indians today opened a final home series with the Detroit Tigers before taking to the road for almost a month.

Fresh from winning three out of four from the New York Yankees, the Indians took their second straight from the Boston Red Sox and ran their league lead to four full games as Bobby Feller, the 19-year-old fire ball pitcher, outpitched and outlasted the veteran Lefty Grove.

Feller Beats Grove

Feller's triumph over Grove, who is making perhaps the greatest comeback ever staged by a 38-year-old hurler, was more than just a victory of youth over age.

It presaged the slowing up of Grove, the backbone of the Boston team, and should that occur, the American league race would become a two club fight. Feller, on the other hand, has become a major factor in the Cleveland drive to overcome their fatal custom of faltering when the chips are down in the heat of a flag campaign.

Young Bob held the Red Sox to seven hits and hung up his ninth victory of the year as the Tribe beat the Red Sox 7 to 3. He was aided by Hal Trosky's 10th home run and by Rollie Hemsley's double and three singles. Grove was charged with his third loss of the year, while the veteran Jimmy Foxx hit homer No. 21 to take over the major league leadership in that field.

In the only other game played yesterday, Ted Lyons pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 9 to 4 victory over the St. Louis Browns to register his 201st major league victory.

White Sox Win

The White Sox pounded out 12 hits including a home run by Rookie Henry Steinbacher, while the Browns were held to nine, including a circuit smash by Harland Clift.

In the American league today the Philadelphia Athletics meet the Yankees in a double-header in New York, the White Sox remain in St. Louis and the Washington Senators play the Red Sox in Boston.

The National league schedule follows: New York at Philadelphia, Boston at Brooklyn, St. Louis at Chicago and Cincinnati at Pittsburgh.

Junior Schedule For This Week

The following schedule in the Junior softball league will be carried out this week, according to Secretary Cachetti:

Tuesday, June 28

DeCaprios vs Peoples, Dean Park.

Richfields vs Fannins, Rose avenue.

Princeton vs Syrian Rays, Gaston Park.

Thursday, June 29

Peoples vs Richfields, B. & O. Field.

Navy Crew Wins Annual Regatta At Poughkeepsie

Better Time Made By Championship Washington Crew In 1937 Race

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Writer

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 28.—Washington should have won just as it did in the Berlin Olympics and as it did here in 1936 and 1937, and if it wasn't to be Washington, then California should have come through as it did three races in a row prior to the huskies' two straight. But it wasn't either of the far western crews that went on to capture this year's annual intercollegiate regatta.

Today, in many a far-flung port about the world navy was being toasted for one of the most surprising, most gallant and, withal, most dramatic victories ever scored in the classic of eight-oared rowing.

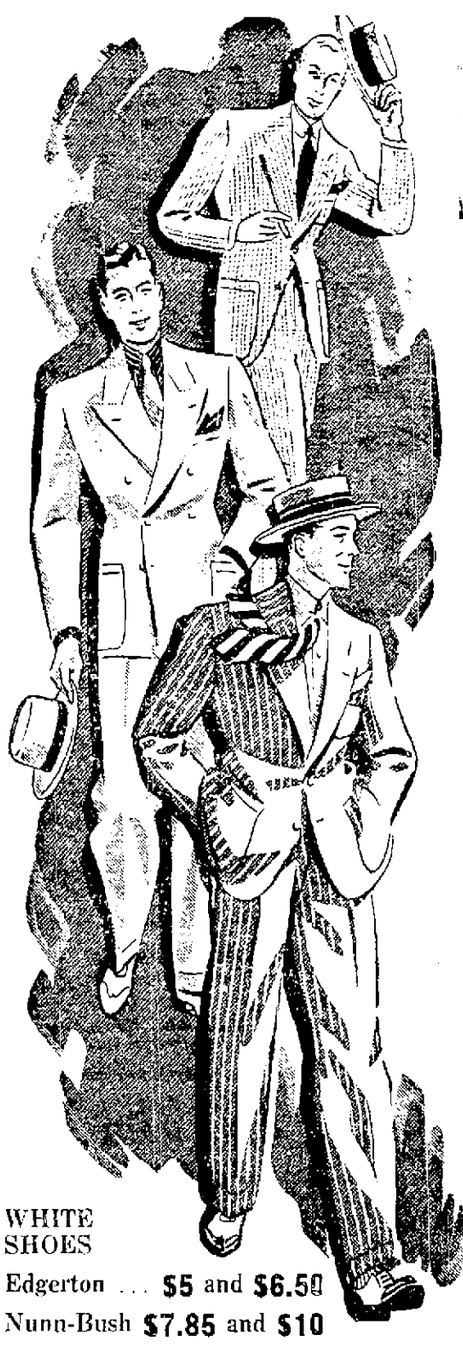

Darkhorses Win

The Middies' seventh oared crew, more than an outside chance to come through yesterday against the heavily favored crews from the far west, but they fought off the challenges of those opposite boat-loads and decidedly beat their backs to carving out a victory in record-time under conditions scarcely ever surpassed in the gruelling four-mile struggle down the Hudson.

It was a popular victory with the 75,000 who lined the river banks and especially with the Corps of Cadets, which rode at anchor near the finish, as the Middies broke the record for the course in beating California, Washington, Columbia, Wisconsin, Cornell and Syracuse in that order.

In fact Navy practically annihilated the mark established by Washington last year, making the distance through the fog and rain in 18 minutes and 16 seconds, or 14 3-4 seconds better than the Huskies' time.

And so it goes, night after night, for those of us who love to fish.

MOONLIGHT PIKE

All day long a relentless summer sun has scorched the city streets . . . . Now night has come, and the sun is gone but there is no sleep.

Let's float awhile on Erie's glassy top! Let's smell cool air, and dare the finny tribe out there!

Hurry, pal, unhitch that old bowline. Minnows swarm around the dock and farther out there will be hungry fish.

We're anchored now, beside the flashing breakwall light. Our lanterns lit, a million minnows gather 'round.

In perfect peace we settle down and let the sights and sounds of nature sing into our souls.

Look at those giant pike! They're slashing through our silvery school like a buzz-saw through a log.

Tickle that big boy with your club. Watch out, he sees it now—he snaps—he's on!

Easy pal, don't shove that gun-whale through. You've got him in, let's get the stringer out.

. . . . . And so it goes, night after night, for those of us who love to fish. While others toss in sleepless heat, we fish with pike in white moonlight and wash away the dust of ordinary life.

Today's Tip

Surface lures are effective in water not deeper than six feet. When fishing in deeper waters, use lures which will reach down to where the fish are.

Rod Records

Captain Arthur W. Dana, of Lakewood, O., caught a nine-pound blue-pike (form of walleye) while night fishing in Lake Erie last spring.

Attention parents, in the Croton and Oak street sections . . . there is a safe place for your children to play and enjoy the day . . . the old golf course . . . it is now a properly supervised playground with plenty of equipment . . . volly ball and other courts to occupy busy little hands and minds . . . far enough away from the main street to make it safe . . . may each child absorb enough sunshine to carry him through the winter in good health.

Here is a little suggestion to the parents, who for the first time are sending their boy or girl to a summer camp . . . please abide with the rules of the camp especially the rule governing visiting days . . . and when you write, never put in anything that might make the child wish he were back home . . . both parties concerned will profit more . . . may every one enjoy the summer.

Stock Market Tone Is Firm

Advance In Stocks Resumed Although Trading Has Slackened Down

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writetr

NEW YORK, June 28—The advance in stocks was resumed today, although trading slackened appreciably and gains were of modest proportions.

The market was easier at the opening, as profit-taking was carried over from yesterday, when the spectacular runup in stock values was halted after six straight advances. An almost immediate rally, however, wiped out fractional declines and brought gains running to 2 points.

Later in the forenoon best prices were shaded somewhat but the general list maintained a firm undertone. Coppers, steels, motors, chemicals and blue-chips were pacemakers of the rally.

The fare increase brought a gain of more than a point in Pullman, with other rail equipment shares moving up in sympathy. Chrysler spurted 2 points in the motors, as did Union Carbide in the chemicals.

Steels converted initial fractional declines into gains of about a point in U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Youngstown. Westinghouse turned in a similar performance in the electric equipments, as did DuPont, Allied Chemical, Douglas Aircraft and Montgomery Ward.

Price changes elsewhere in the list were unimportant for the most part.

Commodities were mixed and generally quiet. Wheat eased fractionally, while cotton moved up slightly. Rubber was a weak spot among the minor staples, with turnover heavy, but Cocoa and hides gained ground. Bonds were dull and little changed.

Unsettling developments surrounding the Spanish situation brought light selling into principal European security markets. The dollar slipped moderately against foreign currencies.

Widow Again Makes Appeal To President

Mrs. Sadie Monssen Wants Roosevelt To Help Her Save Her Home, HOLC Active

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 28.—Unable to scrape together an additional 31 cents per day, Mrs. Sadie Leslie Monssen, widow of the American naval hero, made one last appeal today to President Roosevelt to save her home from the government auction block on Thursday.

To the president at his Hyde Park home, Mrs. Monssen sent this pleading message:

"Hon. Franklyn D. Roosevelt
"Hyde Park, New York

"Respectfully urge you to take action to stop HOLC auction of my home Thursday. My husband's bravery saved $12,000,000 ship and 1,200 men. Feel that his deed more than compensates for slight indebtedness on my home. Would be deeply grateful if you would intervene. HOLC asks $535 a year. Am willing to pay $420. All I can possibly afford. Won't you help?

(Signed)
"Mrs. Sadie Leslie Monssen."

Saved Warship

The government is naming a new destroyer for Lieut Monssen who in 1904 beat out with his bare hands, flames licking the powder magazines of the U.S.S. Missouri. Monssen got a congressional medal of honor for that and the warm praise of President Theodore Roosevelt.

But today, his widow, almost penniless, faces loss of her home in Brooklyn because she lacks $115 of the interest and taxes due the HOLC.

Her only assets are her $30 a month pension from the government and her daughter's earnings of a WPA project.

She threatened today to drape herself "in the flag the Navy Department gave my husband for his heroism" when—and if—she is evicted.

"Let them carry me out that way," she said.

Use of a hot flat iron as a cure for rheumatism caused the death of William J. Carter, aged 86, a shoemaker, of London. He was found semi-conscious on the floor of his room and died in a hospital. At the inquest it was stated that Carter treated himself for rheumatism by rubbing his limbs with paraffin and them ironing himself with an ordinary flat iron. The coroner's verdict was death from shock due to extensive chemical burns.

New Castle News
Dear Sir:

I am now in Los Angeles, California, and find the weather cooler than I had expected, but not variable. I spent a month in the lovely city of San Diego. I knew nothing of the quake that occurred at 12:45 a. m., I was sleeping peacefully.

While in San Diego, I had a delightful day with Prof. and Mrs. G. A. Dickson, who send best regards to all friends. He is just the same as in days of yore, but not quite so active. His address is 110 S. Pacific avenue, Oceanside, California. Also I visited Mrs. Kelly and daughter Mrs. Paul Washburn—they are all in good health, all other members of the family have employment. This is a most interesting city of 1,500,000 people. The high schools here in Los Angeles graduated 9,430 pupils, and the universities over 2,000, other institutions are running and graduating vast numbers.

I am so much interested in the youth of America that it makes me heartsick to think of their present outlook for the future. Nothing to do but clerk, wait on tables or a P. W. A. job.

This age throws out a challenge to those who like myself, have always had employment, have tried to render service and give advise to youth to be honest with their fellow men, to give a square deal, to practice the Golden Rule.

If those who can, and there are many, would step aside at first retirement and pension age leaving a place to be filled by someone capable and in need what a vast change it would make. In the present crisis, I am not referring to the teaching profession alone, but to railroad employees, city officials, steel and tin workers and others; for the depression is not over for thousands of people.

Sincerely yours,
MAYME ARTHERHOLT.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—OH, OH!

Fox Says 'Sap Suckers' Really Benefit Trees

[illegible] bulletin issued in Pa News's [illegible] for the amount of articles pertaining to nature that it contains.

Last week there was an inquiry of Orrin P. Fox who is better in regard to a misstatement in [illegible] that was working on an elder tree.

From the sample of bark that had been taken from the tree it turned out to be that the "sappers" were really small birds called "sap suckers."

These birds that carry the color of black and white and red and yellow, do more good to the trees than harm.

The little wooden like holes that the sap suckers make in the bark of the tree are for a purpose. These little holes fill up with sap, which being of a sticky nature, catch small crawling insects, namely ants. Many small winged creatures such as moths and millers fling their way to the trees, where these sap wells made by the sap suckers are located, and become entrapped. Small ants take their toll of tree life, by their ability to bore, and one half of the sap suckers food is ant life that into for the greater part of the tree population. So, mostly in all cases where these little birds are working, ant life is plentiful. The codding moth and the gipsy moth cause much grief to growing trees, and these too with many other insects that persecute tree life are captivated by these traps so artfully laid for them. This nature has provided a savior for tree life, in the sap sucker, with his method of destroying these parasitical insects.
